

ROSARIO BONACCORSO

VIAGGIANDO

“VIAGGIANDO” , Rosario Bonaccorso’s new project for Jando Music and Via Veneto Jazz, recorded in a quartet with Fabrizio Bosso, Javier Girotto and Roberto Taufic, is due for release in March 2015. In this latest work, the innate strength of Bonaccorso’s melodic writing and his unusual choice of song form on which he has worked for years, have reached a level of perfection, revealing a refined touch of Mediterranean character emerging from a fascinating, blended musical background of global influence. But there’s more to it than that. “Viaggiando” is a soul-searching autobiography with the ambitious goal of cutting a slit in Bonaccorso’s inner universe and giving voice to his emotional sphere – without filters or frills and striving for simplicity.

The album contains a myriad of influences and ideas originating from the diverse geographical origins of the musicians that worked on and enriched the compositions. There’s the melancholic carioca Roberto Taufic, Javier Girotto’s Argentina full of sax traditions and the seamless melding of Mediterranean and European influences of Fabrizio Bosso’s trumpet – who is also present in other recent recordings of the doublebassist – intuitively chiseling fragments of Bonaccorso’s evocative melodies. A musical excursus through different continents and cultures that converge under Bonaccorso’s skilled direction, deus ex machina of a project which, held together by a common thread – that of the journey–marks his personal experiences and life memories.

Rich with autobiographic themes, this new album is defined by the Sicilian doublebassist as “a journey to places in the world and places in my soul”. Starting from the constant stylistic and melodic research that has always distinguished his work, Bonaccorso takes the listener by the hand on a voyage into his own inner world, where discovery and exploration of faraway worlds merge with his own profound personal dimension, portraying the fascinating and multi-faceted musical universe of the artist. For the first time, the doublebass player records as author and interpreter, giving voice to a few tracks: Storto, My Faith, Mon Frere, Song For My Father.

The perfect symbiosis between his voice and his instrument has made him recognizable over the years - a unique quality that has always singled him out. "Viaggiando", created with these pure, essential ingredients, gives birth to a kaleidoscope of emotions emerging from Bonaccorso's inspirational and beguiling music.
